Your travel personality

Mostly A?

You are a lone adventurer: you like to go far and discover new places and you are happy doing this on your own. Your idea of the perfect holiday is centered on where you've been, what you've seen and what you've done, more than who you've met. In fact people can annoy you and get in the way of your plans. You prefer to travel light, and you are willing to discover almost anywhere in the world.

Mostly B?

You are a people person so you like travelling with people and making friends wherever you go. You prefer to share the fun. You feel that sharing the fun doubles the fun and you tend to get bored if you are too long alone. People like having you in their group because you know how to get a party going and find things to do.

Mostly C?

You are a culture lover. You love travelling and learning about new places, new people, new ways of life, new languages. For you everything is an opportunity to learn and to widen your horizons. You don't mind being with friends but you are also happy to discover and learn on your own.

Mostly D?

You are a luxury lover. In an ideal world you would spend your holidays in luxury hotels, on private beaches, with the best of food and entertainment. You are happy meeting people but your priority is comfort and pleasure. You're quite happy to laze beside a pool all day at a fantastic location, with waiters bringing you refreshments and you believe that holidays are about relaxing more than anything else.
